Can you believe that half of term 2 has passed already?
We have been very busy at Martins Creek Public School over the last few weeks, with visits from the CWA and our dance teacher Lou, and learning about Botswana. CWA International Day is only two weeks away. We have been planning our dream trip to this African country—including passports, tickets and itineraries during our technology lessons with Mrs Manning.

As a lottery win seems unlikely, instead we are planning an excursion to the Zoo in Sydney in the last week of term! We will be particularly interested in their animals from Africa. Notes will go home next week.

This week we have been sad to farewell a number of trees, however as they were identified as potentially dangerous to our students and school, we were directed to have them removed. Certainly the front of the school looks different. We intend to replace the tree from the front playground in the near future.

Recently, we were visited by a former pupil of Martins Creek Public School, Mr John Dickman, who visited with his sister Margaret, brother-in-law Eddie and niece Catherine. It is always lovely to speak to people about their experiences at our school.

We were also fortunate to be visited by a former principal of our school Mr Brian Nethery, who some of you may remember.

The students have been working very hard this week on their Botswana projects which will be displayed at the CWA function. Watch this space!

Today we will again welcome our 'Scientists in Schools' partner Julio. We are confident that his visit will be immensely fun for us all. Our students always benefit from Julio’s expertise.
